A MESSAGE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Summer is just around the corner, and PenMet Parks is ready to help you make the most of it. From camps and concerts to free neighborhood play opportunities, we're excited to offer experiences that bring families together and celebrate the best of summer in the Pacific Northwest.

Our popular Adaptive Camp Sampler returns after a successful launch last year, reinforcing our commitment to inclusive programming in 2026. Designed to engage children of all abilities, this camp reflects our belief that recreation should be welcoming and accessible to everyone. You'll also find returning favorites in outdoor education, sports, STEM and preschool camps, along with opportunities for youth to explore, create and grow all summer long.

Our Summer Concert Series is expanding this year. Join us at Sehmel Homestead Park in July and, new this year, on the Harborstone Field lawn at the PenMet Parks Recreation Center campus in August for evenings of live music and connection. We're also introducing a new signature summer event: a free Family Health and Wellness Day at the Rec Center, creating space for families to kick off the summer season together with a focus on fun, fitness and well-being.

Look for our Free Summer Play for kids with Mobile Rec at select locations across the district, bringing outdoor fun directly to neighborhoods.

There is something for everyone this summer, and I encourage you to review this guide to learn more about the wide variety of camps, programs and events we are offering. Cost should never be a barrier, and our need-based financial assistance program is available to all qualified individuals. However you choose to participate, we look forward to seeing you in the parks.

Enjoy the sunshine!
